A FORMER footballer has completed a 150-mile cycle – little more than 10 months after losing both his lower legs in a hit-and-run crash.

Shaun Whiter, 28, joined around 100 people on a two-day tour of Suffolk on Sunday and Monday using a specially built handcycle.

"It was an amazing experience," said Shaun. "I had just over two months practice on the handcycle, trying to fill it in between rehab and other commitments. It was tough, but it was the people that kept me going through it. To see everyone at the end, people who had been there in the highs and lows, those who had cheered me through the 150-miles – it was a huge lift and a sense of pride.

"Without a doubt, the reason why I did this drives you on. The whole reason was to raise awareness for the charities.

"The more money we raise for them will enable someone to be

SAMAR MAGUIRE
@SamarMaguireCN

THE girlfriend of missing
RAF airman Corrie McKeague has shared a poignant first image of her baby bump
as she prepares to give birth to his child.

April Oliver, 21, posted the black and white image along with an emotional message to their baby on Facebook.

She can be seen sitting on the end of a bed, cradling her large baby bump with her right hand while wearing a knitted jumper dress.

Her left hand is holding onto a pair of Timberlandstyle baby booties, similar to the adult ones Corrie was wearing when he disappeared more than seven months ago.

Writing to their unborn child, April said: "You bring me so much pain yet just as much joy. Your daddy would be so proud of you, my little one and would love you as much as I do.

"Corrie will be part of both of us forever, no-one can take that away."

Corrie, 23, was last seen in the early hours of Sunday, September 24, after a night out in Bury St Edmunds, Suffolk.

Police have revealed they have since spent more than £1million trying to find him.

Fitness instructor April had been dating Corrie for around five months before he went missing.

graph, she shared an emotional message to the baby which is believed to be due early summer time.

She said: "I struggle with finding the right words because sometimes when you have to be strong and put on a brave face you forget about the precious moments that pass by.

"Yesterday was an emotional but exciting day, and sometimes it only takes one person to help you see what you have.

April's father, David Oliver, commented on the post, writing: "Proud dad/grand-dad."

April met Corrie on a dating website. She discovered she was pregnant just two weeks later.

After announcing her pregnancy, April has remained relatively quiet only sharing a handful of images and posts about Corrie.

In March, she shared a selfie of the pair during a day out together captioned "I miss you every second of every day."

Search teams are in still searching a landfill site in Milton, near Cambridge, where Corrie's body is believed to be found.

At present they have failed to find any trace of him, despite shifting through more than 3,100 tonnes of waste.

Police believe the Scot ended up in the back of Biffa bin lorry following the night out in Bury St Edmunds.

Waste management staff had initially said that the bin weighed 11kg however it was later revealed it actually weighed 116kg.

The bin Corrie is thought to have been in is believed to have contained rubbish from a Greggs store.

Last week, Corrie's mother, Nicola Urquhart, 48, admitted to the News that she was 'concerned' police had been given the wrong information about her son's whereabouts.

CHARITY

Stars pitch in for Dobbo

SAMAR MAGUIRE
@SamarMaguireCN

A STAUNCH Cambridge United fan who suffered catastrophic brain injuries attended a charity football match dedicated to him and his family in Ely on Sunday.

Simon Dobbin, from Mildenhall, was left unable to walk or talk after he was attacked after a football match in Southend in March 2015.

Sunday's event saw Simon, his wife Nicole and daughter Emily, 18, attend the match at Ely City Football Club's Unwin Ground.

Ex-Premier League footballer Nigel Winterburn, who played for Arsenal as a left-back, was the most notable name to play in the match, as well as ex-Cambridge United players Danny Potter, Liam Hughes, Daniel Chillingworth, and Tes Bramble, brother of ex-Sunderland player Titus Bramble.

There was also an auction of football shirts signed by players including Phil Jagielka, Andrei Kanchelskis, Martin O'Neill, Alan Shearer, Harry Kane, Laurent Koscielny, and a portrait signed by top jockeys, including Frankie Dettori.

Nicole said: "It was amazing, there was such a good turn out. We had around 500 people turn up, and made over £1,000 on the door alone. Simon absolutely loved it, he was really happy."

The event was organised by Dave Boughtwood-Eason who wanted to help out Simon's family after hearing the news. He said: "It was quite overwhelming. I'd never met the Dobbins before, so to meet them was a surreal moment. After everything they've gone through, it's nice that we can give something back to them."

Dave added that he'll be organising another event for Simon next year, which will be "even bigger and better".

Style Awards get off to racing start

SAMAR MAGUIRE
@SamarMaguireCN

FASHION-LOVERS raised a glass at Newmarket's Rowley Mile Racecourse to celebrate the launch of 2017's July Festival Style Awards.

With last year's best dressed lady, Bury's Jemma Holloway, topping the guest list, the event saw champagne and canapes served in the racecourse's hallowed Royal Box, where guests enjoyed a showcase of race-day fashions, courtesy of Hobbs, Trotter & Deane and Rosie Olivia, official July Festival milliner.

The evening also celebrated Cambridge Magazine's media partnership with the Moët & Chandon July Festival and The Spa at Bedford Lodge's sponsorship of The Style Awards, which recognise the best dressed lady, gent and couple over the three-day festival, which runs July 13-15.

Tori Dexter, head of marketing at the Jockey Club, said: "We were delighted with the attendance at our first ever Style Awards launch event, with over 40 key partners joining us for a very fashionable evening in the Royal Box."

"It was a great opportunity to thank our prize sponsors and of course our Style Awards partner, the Spa at Bedford Lodge Hotel."

"Looking ahead to this year's Moët & Chandon July Festival, tickets are selling like hot cakes and hospitality has already sold out for Ladies Day.

"With Cambridge News and Media now the official media partner for the event and Gok Wan, Sarah Harding and Guilty Pleasures joining us for our Apres Racing after parties, it is shaping up to be our biggest and best year yet!"

On July 13, Ladies' Day, it's the girls in the fashion spotlight: with 2,000 entries last year and thousands of pounds in prizes up for grabs, including a £1,000 personal styling experience at Hobbs and treats from great British footwear brand Fairfax & Favor, festival partner.

There's also an added incentive this year: every lady who signs up will be entered into a draw to win a £1,000 hamper of treats, spanning fashion, beauty and fine dining.

Gentleman's Day is on July 14, while Darley July Cup Day, July 15, sees couples take their turn on the catwalk.

saved the same as I was last year."

Shaun, who lives in Burrough Green, was left for dead at the side of a road near Newmarket last summer after Jan Adamec, from Haverhill, crashed into him – pinning Shaun between his own BMW and another car.

After fleeing the scene, Adamec was caught and jailed for more than three years after he admitted causing serious injury by dangerous driving.

The 150-mile ride was aimed at raising money for Ipswich Town's adopted charity, Prostate Cancer UK, but cyclists had the option of choosing a different charity instead.

The former Newmarket FC footballer raised £2,825 for the East Anglian Air Ambulance and Friends of Ipswich Town charities.

Shaun has made astonishing progress in his recovery, learning to walk on prosthetic legs only five months after the accident.

As for his next challenge, the former footballer says he "is on track" to walk down the aisle on prosthetic legs with fiancée, Charlotte.

"I can't wait to get married," said Shaun. "I'm counting down the days."

CRIME

Police appeal over theft from van

POLICE have released CCTV images of two men they would like to speak to following a theft from a delivery van in Mildenhall.

The theft happened in Market Place in the morning of Friday, March 10.

Following a delivery, the driver noticed the cargo area of his van had been opened and a cage broken into, from which a large quantity of tobacco was stolen.

Detectives are keen to trace two men, seen in the vicinity of a blue Vauxhall Zafira vehicle, in connection with the incident.

One man is described as white, in his early 20s and with short black hair.

He was wearing a white shirt with a tie, and black dress shoes.

The second has short black hair and is described as approximately 6ft 1in. He was wearing a light blue shirt with grey shoes.

A police spokesman said: "Anyone with information is urged to contact Suffolk Police on 101 quoting reference 22211/17. "Alternatively contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 or www.crimestoppers-uk.org."

Alma goes walkies . . . to turn up 18 days and 90 miles later

DOG CHASE: Alma managed to avoid capture for 18 days after escaping from a garden in Hertfordshire

A RESCUE dog who bolted from her new home in Hertfordshire has been found – nearly three weeks later and 90 miles away in Newmarket.

Alma, a former street dog from Romania, managed to escape on her first night at her new adopted home in Anstey on April 26.

Dog trapping team Kaye Wicks and Nicki Scriven spent a week tracking her. She used railway lines to travel, covering up to 14 miles under the cover of darkness each night.

A Facebook page was set up for the public to report sightings of Alma, who would pop up in people's gardens. They also created a map showing where she had been spotted.

Kaye said: "Street dogs have distinctive behaviour, which makes them a nightmare to catch.

"They are savvy – Alma seems to have known what she was doing.

"We believe she travelled just over 90 miles from Anstey to Newmarket, winding through Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire, Essex, Cambridgeshire and Suffolk."

JASMINE WATKISS

@Jasmine_WatkissCN

In the lead up to Alma's eventual capture, Kaye got a call from a woman who said the dog was in her garden in Newmarket.

Kaye said: "The lady was absolutely brilliant, she called as soon as she saw Alma in her garden.

"I got her to put some food out for her and to call back if she ate it. When she did, we went over to the address, and made a scent trail – using sardines – to lure Alma back to the garden."

She added: "Once we knew what time she was habitually coming back to the garden and how long she was staying for, we moved in and managed to catch her."

Alma was caught on Saturday, May 13, 18 days after she went missing.

But she will not be returning to her former address – the owners feel they are not experienced enough to offer her the home she needs.

She is now in a private kennel awaiting rehabilitation and a new home.

Alma's former adopters said: "We feel relief and gratitude that Alma has been found and is now on her way to care.

"It could not have happened without the extraordinary, superhuman kindness, goodness and selflessness of an army of people.

"Sadly, it is clear we won't be able to give Alma a home as she needs specialist care, but we will support her."

Kaye said: "To rescue a dog from a terrible life in Romania is a truly wonderful thing to do, but it is so important that it is done properly.

"Any dog that is transported for 36 hours by road to a new life with strangers in a completely different country would find the experience quite overwhelming."

Computers and people

IT is all very well to admonish the NHS for using outdated software, Windows XP etc, but the matter remains that computerisation is many thousands of times more costly than pen and paper and if these software and hardware updates are to be always effected, the NHS and the nation will soon be broke. Computerisation should be limited to hi-tech isolated devices such as MRI scanners. Patient files and general hospital records should all be on paper.

That there is overwhelming need for computers is evidence of the huge pressure on our resources caused by gross over-population. Britain, if to feed herself, needs a population of just 5 million. Our supermarkets are buying in food to feed 85 million daily!

House-buyers are increasingly demanding air-quality data before buying. That air quality is deficient is again, a clear sign of gross over-population. Population must be reduced.

I WANT to thank your readers who have been supporting the British Heart Foundation (BHF) this spring by decluttering and donating items from their clear out to their local BHF shop.

I work at The University of Cambridge as a BHF Professor and wanted to tell your readers about my current research project, funded by the BHF. My team and I research a debilitating heart and lung condition called pulmonary arterial hypertension.

This research could lead to new treatments and outcomes for patients with this poorly understood cardiovascular disease.

My project is just one of over 1,000 research projects that the BHF currently funds at universities across the UK. Each of these projects are only made possible by the BHF's generous supporters and each

Ask for aid to help starving

IN last week's News Mr Gordon Mays pointed out that I am not a true racing man and that I am critical of racing and the Jockey Club.

Too blinking true, the large amount of money I spend on Newmarket races justifies me to criticise, just like I criticise the government which wastes the money it collects from me in taxes. I do not go down on bended knee to anyone, and if the people whose wages I pay fail then I will tell them.

The racing industry does not seem to mind criticism and every day asks me to spend more money on its various schemes and promotions.

One important thing Mr Mays mentioned in his letter was the famine in Africa. While Great Britain spends a fortune on foreign aid why don't the oil-rich Arab states contribute more? As far as I know Yemen is an Arab state. Not far from the United Arab Emirates and Qatar. Perhaps Mr Mays can tell me how many horses that ran last Saturday and Sunday are owned by Godolphin and Qataris. Why are these two ultra-rich organisations wasting so much money on horses when Yemeni children are starving? I am only a very casual racegoer but even so I know lots of racing people who are paid from Dubai and Qatar. As a dedicated racing man Mr Mays must know some of the top people, sheikhs even. So come on Mr Mays ask Sheikh Mohammed for a contribution to the starving people of Yemen.

Cheveley

The annual meeting of Cheveley Parish Council was held in the Community Room at Cheveley School when Cllr Richard Jackson was elected as chairman and Cllr Claire Elbow as vice chairman.

The meeting was chaired by Cllr Elbow in the absence of Cllr Jackson.

An impressive presentation was given by 13-year-old Matthew Peel to outline the case for a skateboard/scooter area to be created on the recreation ground for 9 to 16-year-olds.

This was supported by 40 signatures of children in favour of the scheme.

His idea and another request to look into the possibility of providing a multi-use games area were discussed by the council and it was agreed that they will be considered along with other schemes as part of a feasibility study which it was hoped would be commissioned to look into the long term improvement or replacement of facilities at the recreation ground and pavilion.

Councillors stressed that they were delighted to hear the views and suggestions of all parishioners both young and old regarding future use of assets in the parish.

Anyone wishing to bring their ideas for future developments would be welcome to present them at parish council meetings.

It would be helpful if those wishing to do so could advise the clerk, Mrs Marilyn Strand, prior to the meeting. She can be contacted on (01638) 780835 or at clerk@cheveley.org

It was reported that arrangements were in hand to spread plantings onto the footpath that passes through Brook Stud which has been particularly muddy in the past. Quotations were approved for the repair of the war memorial and for a survey of the recreation ground wall.

In order to update the valuation of various assets including the pavilion and the war memorial it was agreed that quotations should be obtained to carry this out.

The installation of a new fence at the rear of the recreation ground has been completed and many favourable comments have been received regarding its appearance.

Meeting dates for the coming year were approved. They will be held on the second Tuesday of every month with the exception of April, 2018, when the meeting will be on Tuesday, April 17 and August, 2017, when there is no scheduled meeting.

The next meeting of the parish council will be on Tuesday, June 13, at 7.30 pm. in the Community Room at Cheveley School.

GENERAL ELECTION

Meet the candidates seeking your vote

PARLIAMENTARY candidates in West Suffolk for Britain's snap General Election have given reasons why you should vote for them in June.

Theresa May made the surprise announcement outside Downing Street on April 18, despite saying that she would not call an early election.

She blamed other parties' opposition to her plans for Brexit for her decision.

The election will take place on June 8 between 7am and 10pm. If you are not on the electoral roll, you must register to vote by 11.59pm on Monday, May 22.

To register, visit www.gov.uk/register-to-vote
Find out where your polling stations are by visiting www.westsuffolk.gov.uk

Michael Jefferys (Labour)

I HAVE lived in West Suffolk for nearly all of my adult life and feel that I can properly represent the people who live in this beautiful part of the world, with its heathland, with its forest and the rolling green countryside.

This is such an important election, not just to decide the nature of our relationship with the rest of Europe, but also about fundamental issues such as the NHS and education. Another five years of Conservative government and I fear that our NHS will be unrecognisable. We must address the real problems of climate change. We need a government that will protect our precious environment; our green and pleasant land.

After seven long and miserable years of Tory broken promises on wages, the deficit, NHS, our schools and our environment, they cannot be trusted. We need a Labour government that would build a country for the many, not the few. Instead of a country run for the rich, we can create a Britain where all of us lead richer lives: creating educational opportunity for all, guaranteeing the health and social care services we need, providing safer neighbourhoods and building homes people can afford.

Julian Flood (UKIP)

THIS is going to sound strange but we live in politically strange times.

The recent county elections show that people are worried about coming EU negotiations, and they voted Tory to demonstrate that the UK is behind Theresa May. Lib Dems, Green and Labour are anti-Brexit and a vote for them would send her weakened into our most important political battle for 50 years. A Brexit candidate elected in West Suffolk will strengthen her position.

A year ago Matthew Hancock was an Osborne Remainder groupie as Tories slashed budgets and told lies. He tweeted "For a tolerant Britain vote Remain #StrongerIn". He defended Cameron's suborning of the Civil Service. He defended Project Fear. Matthew's record is as a Remain apologist. He'll weaken Mrs May's fight versus the EU.

Matt Hancock (Conservative)

SINCE being first elected MP in 2010, I have worked hard for West Suffolk, as well as nationally in a number of Ministerial roles.

In West Suffolk I have been instrumental in making changes to improve life for my constituents. Through diligence and effective campaigning, the A11 has been significantly improved, attracting investment to the area and with it jobs and a thriving local economy.

During my time as an MP, unemployment has fallen sharply and has brought improved living standards for residents who have been able to get the new jobs available.

I live locally in Thurlow and always listen to the issues that concern local residents, and hold regular surgeries and public meetings.

One of the most important issues raised of course is Brexit. West Suffolk was an area that came out strongly for Brexit and I, under the leadership of Theresa May, will now push to deliver the best outcome for Britain as it leaves the European Union. There is no issue greater to the people at this time – Brexit must be delivered in a way that ensures the best deal for the UK, and that can be done only with the strong and stable government of Theresa May and the Conservatives.

Not me. I'm UKIP. I'll oppose the Tories giving away £13 billion every year in foreign aid while neglecting our own people. I'll oppose the Tory Remainders who want to keep open borders and give away our fishing grounds, oppose out-of-control housing development all over West Suffolk, but I'll fight beside Mrs May for proper Brexit.

Support Theresa May. Vote UKIP on June 8.

I told you it would sound strange.

Donald Allwright (Green)

ARE you fed up with politics right now? Me too. Our country has become increasingly divided over recent decades, and millions of people feel left out from the public discourse.

Some feel that their vote doesn't count because they live in a safe-seat constituency, so don't bother to vote. Others struggle to find affordable housing. Many more feel that the current direction of the nation leaves them disaffected and uncertain about their place in society, whilst still others go about their lives feeling worn down by issues such as traffic congestion and air pollution. Even more worry about their health, and whether the NHS will still be around when they need it.

I aim to provide a voice to all these groups of people in West Suffolk. Everyone deserves to live in a resilient and confident society where difference doesn't mean division. That means an efficient transport system, including public transport that provides service over profit. It means electoral reform, with a fairer voting system that includes the 16 and 17 year olds who are our future. It means sustainable housing to eliminate fuel poverty, and with easy access to public transport. It means adequate funding for the NHS. Above all, it means different groups in society can work together without feeling that politics favours one group over another.

I am 46 years old, have a family and live in Haverhill. A vote for me is a vote for a better future for all.

Elfreda Tealby-Watson (LibDem)

A LONGSTANDING campaigner from East Anglia, I live between Newmarket and Haverhill.

I have been both parish and district councillor and contested West Suffolk in 2015.

I am self-employed in property investment, am married with two daughters and formerly cared for my mother suffering dementia.

As a result I have first-hand experience of the need for strong public services, especially in education and health. Alongside my professional life, I have volunteered as a women's hostel fundraiser, trustee of a children's charity and as school governor. I went to comprehensive school and studied history at Queens' College, Cambridge. Voting Liberal Democrat sends a message supporting an open, tolerant and united society.

A strong Liberal Democrat opposition will challenge the government to achieve that. We want state surveillance powers on private communications reduced; more on-the-beat policing would be better for security. We say taxes are needed to fund the NHS – for mental and physical health. We want the British people to have a say on whether the Brexit deal is right for them. Voting Liberal Democrat is to vote against hard Brexit and to protect peace, prosperity and the future prospects of our young people.

MRI scanner plays key role in saving lives

Animal Health Trust

The Animal Health Trust – which is celebrating its 75th anniversary year – tells us how an MRI scanner played a vital role in saving the life of cat Milo and how you can support an appeal to upgrade this key piece of equipment

At the Animal Health Trust it's the combination of expertise and specialist equipment that helps its vets save animals' lives.

About two thirds of the dogs and cats referred to the AHT will have an MRI scan, a technology the AHT pioneered in veterinary medicine.

In 1992, the AHT was the first practice in Europe to get a dedicated veterinary MRI machine and has since helped countless animals get the appropriate treatment, by proving the key role of MRI in diagnosing problems of the brain and nervous system. Without it, pets like cat Milo wouldn't be alive today to tell the tale.

This lovely long-haired ginger cat came to the AHT after he had been in a nasty cat fight and was badly bitten on his head. The bite formed a small abscess which was initially treated by Milo's local vet.

However, within a week

SURVIVOR: An MRI scan showed that ginger cat Milo had a fractured skull and an extensive brain abscess of seeming to be on the mend, Milo started staggering and pressing his head into corners of rooms. This was very alarming for his owner so she sought urgent veterinary advice and Milo was quickly referred to the AHT.

An MRI scan showed Milo had a fractured skull and an extensive brain abscess. Milo's condition was very serious as he also started fitting. He spent several days in the AHT's small animal hospital under close monitoring and intense treatments.

Given the severity of his condition, it was difficult to predict if Milo would survive. After several days of fighting for his life he gradually started to pull through.

Teresa, Milo's owner, said: "It was a tough time but we are so grateful to the team at the AHT because we were bracing ourselves for losing this very special cat. No praise can be high enough for the team involved in his care. They certainly made the most of his chances and gave him back at least one of his nine lives!"

This year the AHT has launched a major fundraising appeal to upgrade its current MRI machine. To support this appeal, go to: www.aht.org.uk/donate

Long-standing councillor dies

SAMAR MAGUIRE

@SamarMaguireCN

TRIBUTES have been paid to long-standing councillor Bill Sadler who died yesterday.

Cllr Sadler, 79, pictured, was first elected to the district council in 1976, representing the St Mary's ward in Newmarket as an Independent.

It is understood that Cllr Sadler had been suffering from a heart condition.

Leader of Forest Heath District Council, Cllr James Waters, said: "We are all shocked to lose such a dear friend and much-respected colleague.

"Cllr Sadler has represented communities in the area, since when I was just a boy.

"All of us at Forest Heath hold our own fond memories of our time working alongside him.

"Our deepest sympathies go out to his family at this sad time."

Newmarket mayor Andy Drummond, said: "I wish Janet, his partner, and his family our best wishes and deepest sympathy at this most difficult time.

"Bill was a long-standing councillor, representing town, district and county over many years,

"We didn't always get on, but I always respected him as an ally or adversary. We shall all miss him at the council."

Cllr Warwick Hirst, close friend and fellow councillor, said: "He was a man of principle. I shall miss him."

Cllr Sadler had served as the last chairman of the old Newmarket Urban District Council in 1973/74, before being elected to Forest Heath District Council in May 1976.

In 1980/81, he served as chairman of the district council.

In 1998, Cllr Sadler was re-elected to the district council and, having served as chairman on several committees, he once again became chairman in 2001/02.

Cllr Sadler continued to serve on the district council until 2007. He was again re-elected in May, 2011.

Cllr Sadler served on both town and district council until his death.

CHRIS ELLIOT
@ChrisElliotCN

HE wasn't as famous as Alan Turing, but he was a brilliant pioneer whose work helped to shape modern-day computer technology, and internet search engines.

Now Bletchley Park, base for Britain's wartime Nazi codebreakers, is celebrating the centenary of Bill Tutte's birth with a new exhibition.

The commemoration started on Sunday with the Bill Tutte Centenary Symposium, a series of lectures exploring the life and works of the mathematician.

A Bletchley Park spokeswoman said: "Tutte was a Cambridge graduate from Newmarket who made an often overlooked achievement in unravelling the working of the Lorenz machine, a more complex system than Enigma, that was used by the German high command.

"He then devised a statistical method of breaking the code, allowing Bletchley Park to decode some of the most top-secret messages sent during the war and paving the way for the creation of Colossus, the world's first semi-programmable electronic computer."

After the war, Tutte's work in graph theory led to some of the key mathematical developments that have shaped the internet today.

Ian Standen, chief executive of the Bletchley Park Trust, said: "As with many of his wartime colleagues, Bill Tutte's impact at Bletch-

Plaque unveiled for town codebreaker

A BLUE plaque dedicated to Bill Tutte was unveiled in Newmarket on Sunday.

The unveiling took place at Fitzroy House, in Black Bear Lane, where Tutte was born in 1917.

The plaque was unveiled by town mayor Andy Drummond at racehorse trainer Michael Bell's yard, whose grandfather was Sir Stewart Menzies – the chief of MI6 from 1939 to 1952, and Tutte's boss.

"It's an amazing coincidence," said Mr

Bell. "I obviously had no objections at all."

The plaque was organised by the Bill Tutte working group, which is also responsible for the Code Breaker memorial sculpture unveiled in 2014 on Rutland Hill.

Other guests at the unveiling ceremony included the Bill Tutte Club, which is a Newmarket-based after-school maths and science club.

The project was backed by Newmarket Academy and the town council.

ley Park during the Second World War is equal to the importance of his legacy to mathematics and computing today.

"We're delighted to be marking the centenary of his birth with a series of lectures on his life and work and this also marks the opening of a new exhibition, Bill Tutte: Mathematician + Codebreaker."

Tutte's successes were on a par with those of Alan Turing, who received an OBE for his wartime work, yet Tutte was granted no recognition from the Government during his lifetime.

After leaving Bletchley Park, he was appointed a fellow at Trinity College in Cambridge, before emigrating to Canada, where he became a renowned mathematician and professor. He died in 2002, aged 84.

Dr David Kenyon, research historian at Bletchley Park, said: "Tutte's contribution was a turning point in what Bletchley Park was able to achieve during the Second World War. The Allies' understanding of the German plans in France prior to D-Day is very significantly based on Lorenz intercepts rather than Enigma. Had they not had this intelligence, their understanding would have been much weaker."

The exhibition opened to the public on Monday.

Westminster tours set to encourage younger voter

JASMINE WATKISS

@Jasmine_Watkiss

THE government is offering all UK young voters a free tour of the Houses of Parliament, to encourage young adults to register, vote and participate in the democratic process.

Up until polling day on June 8, visitors aged 18 to 24 will be able to set foot inside the House of Commons, the House of Lords and Westminster Hall and see inside debating chambers and voting lobbies.

At the end of the tour, Parliament will invite visitors to the pop-up electoral registration centre in Westminster Hall where they can register to vote if they haven't already done so.

The Houses of Parliament will remain open to visitors until the general election on June 8.

Driver hurt in two-car collision

A WOMAN thought to be in her 20s was taken to hospital after a crash between two vehicles in Newmarket.

The collision took place just before 6am last Thursday on the B1063 New Cheveley Road.

The two vehicles involved were a Ford KA and a Seat Leon, police said.

Motorists faced delays until the road was cleared around an hour-and-a-half later.

A spokeswoman from Suffolk police said: "We were called at 6.07am to reports of a road traffic collision in New Cheveley Road in Newmarket. There are thought to be only minor injuries."

A spokesman for the East of England Ambulance Service confirmed that one of the drivers involved in the crash had been taken to hospital.

He added: "We were called at 6.04am to reports of a collision in Newmarket with one person injured – a woman believed to be in her 20s."

"We sent one ambulance crew to the scene who treated the patient, who was the driver of one of the cars involved. She had neck pain and was taken to West Suffolk Hospital for further care. Her injuries are not thought to be life-threatening."

Growing need for advice on benefits

A GROWING number of cancer patients at Addenbrooke's Hospital are seeking welfare benefits advice.

The Macmillan welfare advice service at the hospital is now doubling its opening hours to support those in financial distress.

Research by the charity and the University of Bristol Personal Finance Research Centre has revealed that cancer costs patients an average of £570 a month through lost income, hospital travel costs, increased heating bills and parking charges.

The Suffolk Macmillan Welfare Rights Advice Service launched at Addenbrooke's last September as a new partnership between Macmillan and Suffolk County Council.

A service adviser visits the hospital every Wednesday to offer free and confidential support to patients and their families and will now also attend on Thursdays.

The charity says that in the first four months of the service it supported 61 people. By the end of March this had risen to 117 people.

Between September and the end of March, the service helped people access more than £3,000 in Macmillan grants and £250,000 in ongoing benefit gains.

Special cricket day to raise funds for diabetes research

A CRICKET match will be held from dawn until dusk near Newmarket for a joint fundraising effort next month.

Chippenhams Cricket Club will host the match at its ground on Sunday, June 18, in aid of the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF) UK and to build a cricket pavilion building.

The match will start at 5am and finish at 9.30pm – with a number of activities going on during the day, including junior cricket coaching, a Kwik Cricket Tournament and a bake off competition.

Darren Hughes, of Chippenhams Cricket Club, said: "We're hugely looking forward to this event."

The club runs five adult teams in the summer, offering cricket for all levels of ability, while also weekly coaching for 70 junior members, and runs four junior teams in local leagues.

The huge growth the club has seen over the last few years means it has outgrown its facilities and needs a new building.

The club has joined forces with JDRF for this event because three families, who have been actively involved for many years, live with the challenge of Type 1 diabetes.

Sophie, 12, who started playing cricket aged 4 at the Family Kwik Cricket evenings, has progressed into the junior teams.

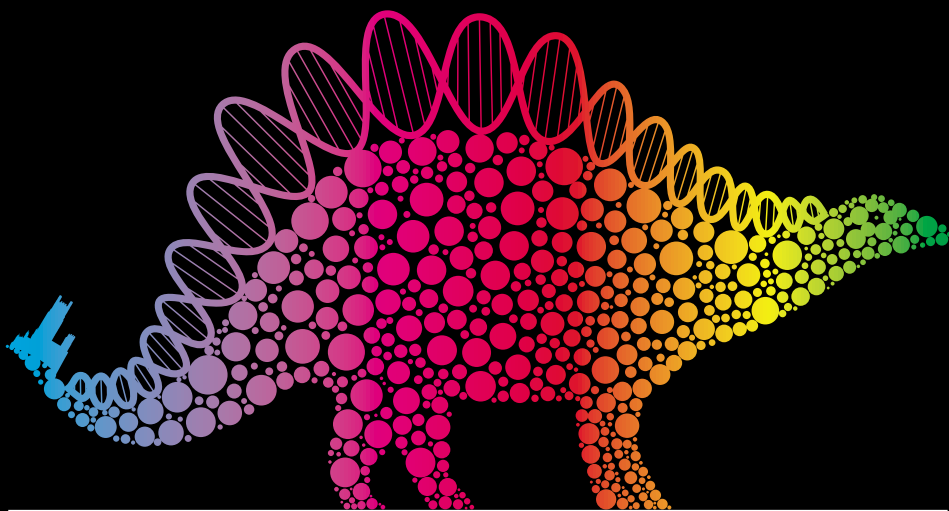

She is a keen cricketer playing at county level while managing her diabetes.

Sophie's mum, Sally, said: "Everyone at the club has been very supportive in encouraging Sophie to keep playing cricket and it's fantastic that the club have decided to share the funds for this event with JDRF. The work JDRF do gives real hope that a cure for this devastating disease can be found."

Type 1 diabetes is an autoimmune condition where the body's immune system attacks and destroys insulin producing cells in the pancreas.

HANGING OUT WITH THE MOVIE STARS

PAUL HOUSE gets a taste for the high life on a trip to Toronto's film festival

THE showbiz calendar is a busy one filled with glitz, glamour, limousines and celebrities. But I'm not talking about Hollywood or Cannes. The Toronto International Film Festival – TIFF to its friends – is entering its 41st year and with a line-up of 400 films, it's more than capable of competing with these more famous movie business meccas.

I flew in on Air Canada's new 777 Dreamliner, and arrived to a bustling city and a temperature of 36°C, which was a bit of a surprise in September. It's at times like this you appreciate that air-conditioned limo, although, in a pinch, the recently introduced Union Pearson Express will get you downtown from Toronto Pearson in 25 minutes, costing a fiver each way.

I check in to the impressive Delta Hotel on Lower Simcoe, in the new SoCo (Southern Core) area, a trendy mix of restaurants and bars. The blue glass exterior reflects the iconic CN Tower, and below it is Ripley's Aquarium, both of which I am looking forward to visiting.

In the bright, airy atrium, I am greeted by the cheerful concierge who shows me around.

As I'm on a tight schedule, I head up to my room, where floor-to-ceiling windows offer a view that is simply stunning. The restaurant, whiskey bar and executive floor offer similar vistas.

But first, food. Toronto's many communities from the Brewery and Financial Districts to SoCo and Lawrence Market offer something for every palate.

Scaramouche offers yet more views, with the opportunity to grab a panoramic shot while enjoying excellent pasta and seafood.

Then to bed, ready for the next day's city tour and a bucket list entry, the CN Tower's Edgewalk.

A hearty breakfast prepares me for two extremes: seeing the entire city on one of the many hop on, hop off buses, then my walk around the outside of the CN Tower with nothing but a strap and fetching orange jump suit to protect me.

I catch the bus at the bustling Yonge and Dundas intersection between downtown Garden District and Moss Park. Leaving every 20 minutes, the tour costs £22 for an adult ticket, £12 for children and £63 for a family ticket. There are 22 points of interest along the way, plus the chance of a harbour cruise.

The two hours fly by thanks to the tour guide's commentary and regular photo stops. You can hop on and off at the designated spots, and there's a comfort break halfway round the circuit. The company also offers visits to Niagara Falls, but plan them carefully to ensure you don't have to rush it.

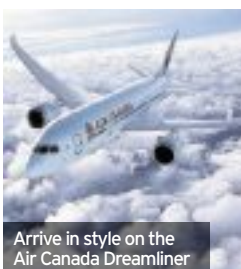

Towering over the Toronto skyline, the CN Tower stands 1,815 feet above Downtown, and boasts the world's highest full-circle hands-free walk. Whatever your brain might tell you, it's very safe.

After a safety briefing we head to the glass lift then we're up and out. From the top of the tower you get the best view of Toronto possible without climbing aboard a helicopter. The adrenalin courses through your body – and it's all captured on camera to share with friends.

Would I do it again? Yes, but next time at night, which apparently is a completely different experience. I'm so overcome I buy a mug and a fridge magnet.

After hitting the heights, I dive underground to Ripley's Aquarium, a TARDIS-like attraction that seems bigger on the inside than the outside.

It offers a totally immersive spectacle with plenty of opportunity to have your photo taken with the exotic sealife swimming above you. Grabbing a selfie with a shark is obligatory for any tourist.

At the end of the tour, you head upstairs into a setting that looks as if you're standing on a beach with the vast sea in front of you. In true Ripley's style, it has to be seen to be believed.

The same could be said of that evening's outing to TIFF and the premiere of The Magnificent Seven reboot, in the company of the stars of the film, Denzel Washington, Ethan Hawke, Chris Pratt, Peter Sarsgaard and the gorgeous Haley Bennett. Like said, Toronto does A-list well.

The city pretty much closes its centre down at night for the event, so I finish star-gazing and head off to take in the TIFF buzz. Something is happening on every street corner, and the city bristles with selfie sticks. It's 2am by the time I make it back to bed.

The next day I head for the Royal Ontario Museum. I've visited it before, to see China's Terracotta Army.

Now, the main attraction is US sculptor Dale Chihuly, who uses the mediums of ice, water, glass and neon.

His works are stunning, even to my untrained eye. Two hours later, I find myself in El Catrin, an eatery in the trendy Distillery District.

If you're after Mexican food, and experimental cocktails, this is the place. Elsewhere, check out Dhaba, one of the city's finest curry houses.

At the weekend, take in a baseball game at Rogers Arena – I watch the Toronto Blue Jays play the Boston Red Sox. Even if you've never seen a game before, the whole show that is major league baseball is intoxicating. The Jays win, adding to the feelgood factor.

My last day in Canada is a relatively short one but I still manage to cram in one more restaurant, the Good Son.

Set in Queen Street West, at first Good Son looks as though you may have wandered into a cross between an antique store and book shop.

They haven't updated in many years yet it's still bang on trend. The food spans great sharing dishes such as jerk shrimp and steak tartare to their own wood oven pizza. I opt for seared Digby scallops with cauliflower risotto and crispy capers.

You can't help but marvel at the ever-changing landscape here. There's the bright lights of Downtown; the trendy Brewery District; there's Queen Street West and the up-and-coming SoCo. You're never short of something to eat, drink and see in this beautiful city at any time of year.

I'm already considering coming back for the Christmas Markets...

Who murdered Evelyn Foster?

In 1931, off a remote Northumberland road, flames rose up into the night. Beyond anyone's help, Evelyn Foster lay near her burning car – herself engulfed in flames. With her last breath she described her assailant: a mysterious man with a bowler hat.

Nearly 90 years after her murder the case remained unsolved. With unprecedented access to the police files has crime writer, Diane Janes, finally tracked the killer down?

A story for the young ones...

Adrian Edmondson reveals how turning 60 and the death of his friend Rik Mayall have affected him. As his debut children's novel is published, he tells HANNAH STEPHENSON why family remains his priority ADRIAN EDMONDSON is admiring a poster of himself and his late friend Rik Mayall, embellished with smaller pictures of the pair in different guises at the bottom of the frame.

Since his friend and comedy collaborator's death in 2014 from a heart attack, he has kept his counsel on how he copes with the loss of the man he starred with in hit Eighties and Nineties comedies The Young Ones and Bottom.

They had been close pals since meeting at Manchester University, cutting their teeth at The Comedy Store before gaining fame in Channel 4's The Comic Strip Presents... with the likes of Dawn French, Jennifer Saunders (who Adrian went on to marry) and other young comedy stars of the time.

He has, however, touched on death in his debut children's novel, Tilly And The Time Machine, about a seven-year-old who lives with her scientist dad, the inventor of a time machine, and wants to be transported back to her sixth birthday party when her mummy, who had cancer, was there.

"Part of the inspiration for this book is looking at death," he explains. "I found I could write about adult things more easily in a children's book than I could when I was trying to write an adult novel."

Adrian, who turned 60 this year, found it difficult to show emotion publicly following Rik's death. He was a pallbearer at the funeral.

"It feels intrusive having to explain yourself, which is why people write. You process it in a different way."

His friend's death, he says, came as a big surprise.

"He was like a brother. It's just very weird when someone like that pops off."

"I miss the man who would laugh at my most stupid jokes. We had a little shorthand of texts. I mean, Jennifer's very funny and laughs at 90% of my jokes, but there are 10% which only Rik would laugh at - and now I don't really have an audience for those."

After Rik's death, Adrian went to three therapy sessions, before finding a book that helped him more. He says: "I discovered stoicism, the proper philosophy rather than the dictionary definition, which is stiff upper lip."

Rik Mayall and Adrian in 1999

"I read a book by Jules Evans called Philosophy For Life: And Other Dangerous Situations and I've been a lot better since then."

"You start to learn that you can have different responses to things. I have definitely mellowed."

"Very little annoys me now. I work on not being annoyed."

While his new book is gentle and funny, it also touches on cancer, a subject close to home after wife Jennifer was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2009. He has previously said lots of people get cancer, it's part of life, and that people shouldn't be defined by it.

"It's boring to treat people who've had cancer and survived as 'cancer survivors' for the rest of their lives. They're just people."

The couple have been married for 32 years and guarded their privacy throughout.

"The secret (of a happy marriage) is don't talk about it. Any couple that start talking about themselves in glowing terms in the papers usually end up divorced the week after."

Professionally, it's clear there is no competition between them. She's won all the awards in the house - apart from his Celebrity MasterChef gong from 2013 - but it doesn't rankle.

"People worry about this, don't they? They think it must be horrible being married to a successful woman but I don't think it is. I'd much rather be married to a successful one than an unsuccessful one."

Family is hugely important to Adrian, whose first marriage was short-lived. When he proposed to Jennifer, he said: "Will you marry me and can we have children?"

"I don't know where that came from, because it never occurred to me with any other girlfriend," he says, laughing.

They have three grown-up daughters and three grandchildren, on whom he dotes.

"I do like children," he says. "I find them immense fun. I know people who see their children as a duty - and that must be hard. But there's nothing I like more than the company of kids, even when they are grown up. Ours are always around and I really enjoy it. It feels like what it's about and it's uncomplicated."

While they have kept the family home in Devon, the couple spend most of their time at their house in central London, which they bought to be near the children.

Only one of their daughters, Beattie, 29, has gone into acting. She stars in the comedy Josh, and Jennifer has already guest-starred twice as her on-screen mother.

"It's always a bit of a worry when your kid says, 'I'm funny'. When she told us 10 years ago that she was doing a show at university and did we want to see it, we went up thinking, 'Oh God! Suppose it's just awful!' But it wasn't. She's good at what she does."

Adrian Edmondson, above, and his debut children's book Tilly And The Time Machine, inset below

Later this year, Adrian will be filming a new four-part ITV police drama called Bancroft, in which he plays a policeman who wants his female counterpart's job, so there are no thoughts of retirement.

But the deaths of Rik and several other friends have made him consider his own mortality.

"I recently turned 60, which I'm having a bit of trouble with. It just seems very old. When I was a teenager, 60 seemed pretty close to death. You'd expect people to die in their 60s of old age. I suppose that's gone up to late 70s or 80s now - well, it has for me!"

"I feel that you're generally going uphill in life but I've gone over the crest and although the hill might still be quite long on the way down, I definitely feel I'm looking down."

"It's made me rationalise what I enjoy and make sure I do what I enjoy. I'm not as desperate as I was. I've decided what I am."

"After a long time of being a pretend comedian, I've decided I'm a writer of children's books and an actor - two jobs which fit each other like a glove, because they fill in the gaps for each other. And I'm very happy doing those things."

His first children's book may touch on death, but it also celebrates life as Tilly surrounds herself with happy pictures of her mother. Rather like the poster of Rik and Ade, which remains firmly fixed to his wall.

ANYTHING IS POSSIBLE

by Elizabeth Strout, Viking, £12.99 (ebook £9.99)

YOU don't need to have read Pulitzer Prize-winning author Elizabeth Strout's dazzling 2016 novel, My Name Is Lucy Barton - but it is the gateway to her latest work, Anything Is Possible - in which she carves out a collection of intensely spare and arresting short stories revolving around the characters on the fringes of Lucy Barton's fearful childhood in soybean-field choked Illinois.

Every chapter smacks you with depth, nuance, subtlety and luminous characterisation. You will feel guilt, fear, pain, love, longing and despair. A wonder of a book.

INTO THE WATER

by Paula Hawkins, Doubleday, £20 (ebook £7.99)

THIS follow-up to the huge seller The Girl On The Train, is set in a Northumberland village, where Jules Abbott returns home following the death of her estranged sister, Nel.

Suicide or foul play? The plot quickly thickens, as the stretch of water where she's found - The Drowning Pool - has a long history of tragic female deaths.

The story has many twists and a lot of plot to get through and lacks the narrative intensity and psychological power of The Girl On The Train.

THE STARS ARE FIRE

by Anita Shreve, Little, Brown, £18.99 (ebook £9.99)

GRACE HOLLAND is a 1940s housewife, trapped in a loveless marriage. When fires sweep Maine, she is left homeless and destitute - and her husband has vanished.

For Grace, the tragedy brings both uncertainty and incredible freedom as she struggles to survive. Then, in another shocking twist, she faces danger as never before.

A compulsive read which brings the powerlessness of women before emancipation into sharp focus. However, the ending is a little too cute, tidy and unlikely.

New Range Rover to celebrate milestone

LAND Rover has announced a new landmark edition of its Range Rover Evoque model to mark the building of 6,000 units in the six years since its introduction.

Demand is still increasing for the pioneering luxury compact SUV that delivers critically-acclaimed design, desirability and all-terrain capability to the segment it created in 2011.

Six years after going on sale, sales reached an all-time high for a single month both globally and in the UK. The UK registered a record 6,781 Evoques in March 2017 and almost 18,000 Evoques were sold globally.

Priced from £39,000, the Landmark Evoque makes its global debut at this week's Royal Windsor Horse Show, when orders will open.

Jeremy Hicks, managing director, Jaguar Land Rover UK says: "The Evoque has been an indisputable success. It's our biggest selling model in the UK and continues to thrive six years after launch, it's a fantastic achievement and worthy of celebration. The Landmark edition has new dynamic detailing and a distinctive aesthetic which takes its design credentials to an even higher level – it looks fantastic and we know customers will love it."

Stylish with plenty of room

MENTION a new car is 87mm wider, has a wheelbase increased by 95mm but overall is 2mm shorter than the model it replaces yet there's bags more room inside and most punters will be left confused and perhaps unable to comprehend what's going on.

The answer is to sit inside the all-new SEAT Ibiza supermini and the penny will drop.

However, UK motorists will have to wait until July to find out for themselves as that's when the fifth generation Ibiza arrives.

But most people will be impressed because the new five-door Ibiza – the three-door and ST estate versions have been dropped from the range – is the roomiest in the supermini class and along with its stylish looks and vastly improved interior furnishings and fittings it sets new levels for a car in this class.

Much of the extra space is due to the car's new platform – it's called the MQB A0 and SEAT is the first to use it in the Volkswagen Group – and with a body that is 30 per cent stronger, the latest Ibiza has a far more solid feel about it out on the road.

SEAT is lucky in being part of the Volkswagen empire since it can let its parents do all the engineering and technical homework on engines, chassis and the like and then cream off what it wants.

That allows the SEAT designers to come up with attractive looks and smarter interior layouts for their own brand of cars.

CLASSY: The new SEAT Ibiza supermini

A simple solution of course and one that has paid big dividends for the Spanish car maker, originally regarded as a lame duck when VW took it over back in 1986.

The new Ibiza stands out from the crowd with striking and stronger bodylines. It also sits better with lower looks and has rather natty styled triangular front lights, all making the car more grown-up.

It's certainly a totally different kind of supermini compared to the first edition Ibiza from 1984. That one was designed by the famous Italian stylist Giorgio Giugiaro and was regarded then as being very avant garde.

Times (and tastes) have moved on and the latest Ibiza is really impressive, not only because of the vastly improved interior space and trim levels but the way the car actually drives – a crucial factor of course.

Relying on VW powertrains the new Ibiza has the 'in-house' three-cylinder 1.0-litre turbocharged petrol engine with a choice of 74, 94 or 114bhp outputs plus a new 1.5-litre petrol engine offering 148bhp which appears in the 'go-faster' FR model.

That version will naturally appeal to the younger brigade, particularly as SEAT says there are no plans for a sports Cupra edition in the new Ibiza range.

Most of the new line-up has a five-speed manual gearbox, although the quicker versions do have a six-speed transmission, while the trim levels remain much as in the current SEAT model ranges, starting with the S, then SE, then the SE Technology with a choice of 74 or 94bhp followed by the more sporty FR trio and a pair of the top spec XCELLENCE models.

With the new engines and the new chassis the quality and refinement of the drive and ride are far better than on previous generations.

SEAT bosses expect the SE Technology model with the 1.0-litre 94bhp engine under the bonnet and coming in at £15,255 to be the linchpin in the new range – and it's easy to see why because it has the ideal combination for most drivers in terms of performance and satisfaction.

It clocks in with an acceleration of 0 to 62mph of 10.9 seconds, combined fuel consumption of 60.1mpg, CO2 of 106g/km, sits in VED Band E, insurance group 11 and with a BiK rating of 20 per cent.

For a driver looking for a cheaper option then the entry-level 1.0-litre 74bhp Ibiza S at £13,130 is a decent enough buy.

Haggas close to double glory at French Guineas

Racing

WILLIAM Haggas nearly recorded a notable double as Sea Of Grace finished second in the French 1000 Guineas and Rivet was third in the French 2000 Guineas.

The Frankie Dettori-ridden Rivet was third in Abu Dhabi Poule d'Essai des Poulains at Deauville on Sunday behind the Jean-Claude Rouget-trained Brametot and runner-up Le Brivido, trained by Andre Fabre.

Newmarket trainer Haggas said of Rivet, who was second to Eminent in the Craven Stakes at Newmarket last month: "He ran a commendable race and improved from his first race of the season.

"He was all right on that ground but it appears now he wants further in trip.

"We had planned to go to the Irish Guineas, but I think we'll now probably come back here for the French Derby."

Sea of Grace, ridden by Christophe Soumillon, looked a possible winner of the Poule d'Essai des Poulaches on Saturday with a furlong to run but the Fabrice Chapet-trained Precieuse was delivered with a perfectly-timed charge

SIMPLY THE BEST: Best Solution on the way to victory at Lingfield PA

by Olivier Peslier.

Haggas said: "We will now go to Ireland (Irish 1,000 Guineas)."

■ Godolphin's Best Solution won the Derby Trial at Lingfield on Saturday.

It was a welcome change of fortune for Godolphin trainer Saeed bin Suroor, who held out big hopes of winning a first Kentucky Derby recently with Thunder Snow only for the colt to decide he did not want to run after leaving the stalls.

Best Solution had finished behind Thunder Snow in Dubai but the 7-1 chance relished the return to turf, beating the staying-on Glencadam Glory by three and a quarter lengths under Pat Cosgrave.

Bin Suroor said: "He is very nice. He didn't handle the dirt - he ran on it twice and we came back straight from Dubai as we did not want to run him in the UAE Derby.

"He is in the English and Irish Derbys. We will have to talk to Sheikh Mohammed and he will make the decision."

Woods steps up as Fen Tigers triumph

MILDENHALL swept doubts of their ability without Jordan Jenkins aside and moved a step closer to the National Trophy final with a devastating finish to beat Kent 55-34.

The Fen Tigers opened a 10-point lead after seven races but it was not until they powered away with a hat-trick of 5-1s in the last four heats that victory was assured.

Involved in two of those maximum wins, as well as one in heat two, was reserve Sam Woods, who came out of the shadows of his absent exam-sitting partner Jenkins to notch the first double-figure haul of his career.

Woods said: "I had to work hard for the points as the bike was not working right in my last one.

"It's pleasing as people were saying Kent would win as we were without Jordan."

Captain Jon Armstrong, who jetted in to interrupt his Majorcan holiday, paired with Woods and Connor Mountain for the maximum heats 12 and 15 respectively.

In the latter, he held off Luke Bowen's efforts until the penultimate bend when the Kings skipper came charging hard under him, caused Armstrong to fall, and got excluded for unfair riding.

"He didn't touch me," admitted Armstrong, who dusted himself off ready for his flight back to the Balearics.

"I could hear him coming and I got off as I wasn't going to get round the corner. But I feel good to have had a fall and get back up."

Dan Halsey twice equalled West Row's quickest time of the year but his maximum hopes disappeared after an inexplicable fall in his third ride while comfortably leading Bowen.

Like King's Lynn last week, Kent had misfortune when Jack Thomas crashed out in his first ride and left them with just five riders, with only Nathan Stoneman providing Bowen with good support.

Jarvis wants rules change after Silverstone struggles

OLIVER Jarvis believes the Blancpain GT Series promoters need to re-think their balance of performance rules after a disappointing outing at Silverstone saw him finish ninth in his Bentley Team M-Sport Continental.

The #63 Grasser Racing Team Lamborghini claimed their third Blancpain GT Series win in a row - two wins in the Endurance Cup and one in the Sprint Cup - with victory at Silverstone.

And with two Mercedes taking second and third, Newmarket driver Jarvis believes changes need to be made in order for the rest of the field to have a chance of being competitive.

"We had okay pace but the Lamborghinis and Mercedes were running at least a second a lap quicker than us," he said.

"That's not good for a competitive championship and it's something the organisers really need to take a look at."

The #8 Bentley finished fifth but Jarvis believes that was as good as the team could have hoped for given the speed of their rivals.

Motorsport

He continued: "The best we could have hoped for is fifth, which the sister car managed. We weren't quick enough compared to the Lamborghinis and Mercedes, and it's not just us - Ferrari, Nissan, BMW and Audi are not on the pace."

Jarvis, 33, and co-drivers Guy Smith and Steven Kane had their hopes of a good result dashed when they pitted their #7 car during the second of two safety car periods. They dropped from ninth to 14th when Jarvis took over driving duties from Smith and things got even worse when Jarvis was spun from behind by the Ferrari of Giancarlo Fisichella, an incident which earned the Italian a drive-through penalty.

Jarvis managed to recover, and Kane took on the final stint in 11th, but with pace an issue, the #7 car moved up just two more places in the final hour.

The next round takes place at Paul Ricard, France, on June 24 and it remains to be seen if the balance of performance will change.

Defeat for Mildenhall

Cricket

HALF-CENTURIES from Joe Reed and Peter Worthington proved to be in vain as Mildenhall went down by five wickets at Great Witchingham.

The former hit 59 and the latter 56 as Ben Shepperson's men amassed 244, being all out in the final over.

Tino Best and Worthington took two wickets apiece in the run chase, but Luke Schlemmer guided Witchingham home.

His unbeaten 106 was added to by Michael Jones (58) as the hosts reached 247 for 5 in the 48th over.

Burwell suffered an agonising one-wicket defeat against Vauxhall Mallards.

Burwell opens Thomas Jagot (75) and Simon Donald (72) put on 103 for the first wicket, with Joe Tetley contributing 44 as they made 259 for 9.

Mitchell Todd made 104 and Ben France 50 as the home side closed in on the total. But Josh Arksey (2 for 44) removed France and Jay Ghelani (3 for 35) bowled Todd to give their side a chance.

But an unbeaten 26 off 19 balls from No 10 Paul Bradshaw got his side over the line.

The swimmers took part in individual races and relay events, and the Newmarket swimmers achieved 23 pbs.

Newmarket came fourth.
